List 5 Key Take-Aways from the Seminar

(Need to be completed in at least 100 words in order to get credit)

1. Whether you constantly move from job to job or choose to stay at a certain job for a while, what matters most is that you are constantly challenging yourself. Growing comfortable can be a bad thing because in the tech industry, things are constantly moving forward, so you should always be learning.
2. Ideally, your resumes should ideally be filled with work experience, internships, project work, volunteer work, or anything that shows that you can work with other people.
3. There is definitely still going to be a demand for IT workers in the future. While there is the potential for things like AI to take our jobs, AI still is not perfect, and so people will still be needed for judgement and correctness.
4. When it comes to planning for retirement, definitely start putting away some money into your 401k as soon as possible. Whenever you get a pay raise, start putting more money into your 401k. Try not to let lifestyle inflation get the better of you.
5. Work from home is a trend that will be here to stay for a while. The reason for this is that it is easier and more productive to have some time to solve a problem in private, rather than constantly be in an open environment.
